

Arizona Dance e-Star

a publication of the Arizona Dance Coalition

Volume 3, Issue 2

February 2013

Dear Readers,

The Arizona Dance Coalition Annual Member Meeting was held on January 13 at The Farm (Phoenix) and guest speakers Lynn Monson of the Arizona Dance Education Organization and Alex Nelson of the Arizona Commission on the Arts filled us with hope for a better 2013. Motivated to push our mission even further, ADC is taking steps to increase our visibility, the visibility of our members, and the visibility of dance in all of Arizona. The distribution of promotional materials, conducting the first survey of subscribers (statewide dance community), plans for a member showcase, and ideas for bringing dance films to children are in the works. We are motivated! If you have a counter for some of our postcards or wall space for our poster, give us a call, and help us reach out.

Monday, February 4, we will be reaching out to our State Legislators on the Lawn of the State Capitol. ADC is a sponsor of Arts Congress 2013 and we will be talking up the importance of the arts, especially dance, to those we have elected. We've captured their attention for a day!

It's February. Wear RED. Take care of your ♥. Get in some social dancing and celebrate Valentine's Day. (My mind went right to chocolate.) Explore the issue, give some thought to the article on pgs 17-18 and revisit the word "Shazam" on pg 20. It is now an app!

Yours affy,
Krystyna Parafinczuk
Editor & ADC Treasurer

February 10, Sunday, 7 pm. UA presents at Centennial Hall, UA Campus, 1020 E University Blvd., Tucson.

Alonzo King Lines Ballet ~ "Alonzo King is one of the few bona fide visionaries in the ballet world today..." proclaims the San Francisco Chronicle. His choreography, brought to life by the extraordinary LINES Ballet dancers, is renowned for connecting audiences to a profound sense of shared humanity. Collaborating with noted composers, musicians and visual artists from around the world, King creates works that draw on a diverse set of deeply rooted cultural traditions, imbuing classical ballet with new expressive potential. King understands ballet as a science – founded on universal, geometric principles of energy and evolution – and continues to develop a new language of movement from its classical forms and techniques. Tickets: $25-$50. YouTube clip.

Limón Dance Company

Acclaimed for its dramatic expression, technical mastery and expansive, yet nuanced movement, the Limón Dance Company illustrates the timelessness of José Limón's work and vision. Now led by Artistic Director Carla Maxwell and celebrating its 65th anniversary, the company performs a repertoire of unparalleled breadth that balances classic works with commissions from contemporary choreographers.

Limón's program will include the new work Come with Me, a collaboration between world-renowned Cuban composer and musician Paquito D'Rivera and Rodrigo Pederneiras, the principal choreographer of Grupo Corpo, Brazil's leading contemporary dance company. Showcased will also be two masterpieces: Mazurkas by Frederic Chopin and The Moor's Pavane by Henry Purcell. Tickets: $39, $49 or $69 through ScottsdalePerformingArts.org or (480) 499-TKTS (8587).

CALENDAR OF EVENTS

February 23, Saturday, 7:30 pm. Paradise Valley Community College, Center for the Performing Arts, 18401 N 32nd St, Phoenix. Desert Dance Theatre presents Sister Moses: The Story of Harriet Tubman for its 21st season. This is beautiful story of a courageous woman's determination to free her people from slavery through the Underground Railroad. She was one of America's first liberated women of color, who fought against all odds for the sake of freedom and equality. This powerful dance drama features Desert Dance Theatre with Renee Davis as Harriet Tubman, dramatic narration by Renee Morgan Brooks, African drumming and music direction by Step Raptis, accompaniment by a string quartet and traditional spirituals sung by a choral ensemble featuring baritone soloist, Greg Dansby. Performing with the professional cast are dance students from the Paradise Valley Community College, Grand Canyon University, Bologna Elementary and other Chandler schools. For more information contact Desert Dance Theatre at 480-962-4584 or go to DesertDanceTheatre.org. Tickets: $15 adults; $12 seniors/staff; $10 military/student; $8 children. An additional $2 ticketing fee applied to all tickets purchased at the box office 1 hr prior to the performance. PVCC Box Office 602-787-7738.

February 24, Sunday, 7 pm. UA presents at Centennial Hall, UA Campus, 1020 E University Blvd, Tucson. MOMIX: "Botanica" "Botanica" reveals nature's changing imagery in MOMIX's signature illusionary style. A fantasy world of surreal images and childlike wonder is brought to life by a cast of dancer-illusionists and set to an eclectic score that ranges from birdsong to Vivaldi. Using athletic dance, large-scale puppets, projected imagery and larger-than-life props, choreographer Moses Pendleton evokes a vivid landscape The New York Times calls "Eye-popping and mindboggling... everything looks magical." "Earthly and otherworldly at once—a magnificent vision of the everyday miracles around us." -Times Union

Tickets: $23-$60.

March 2, Saturday, 7 pm. ASU Galvin Playhouse, 51 E Tenth St. (& Mill Ave), Tempe.

Emily Johnson/Catalyst Dance

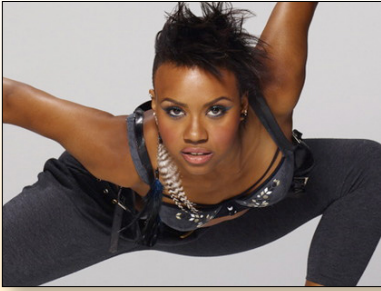

Celebrated director, choreographer, curator Emily Johnson (Native Alaskan Yup'ik) presents NIICUGNI (Listen) a new dance performance, housed within a light and sound installation made of hanging fish-skin sculptures. Johnson's almost ethereal ability to weave elements of theater, dance and art installation into a uniquely affecting experience is not to be missed. The fish-skin sculptures will be produced by local community members during her residency at ASU Gammage and will be an integral part of an unforgettable theatrical journey fusing music and dance with contemporary performance. The effect is one of taking us out of the theater and into nature, to NIICUGNI (Listen) to our connection with the Earth and our ancestors.

"Niicugni is many things. Here's what I can tell you: it is a dance that took thousands of years to make. It is a story made of many. It is a word that instructs us to listen. There is hope here, and death; monsters and laughter; salmon, bear, blood. There is you, everyone who has ever lived, the ground beneath us, and a never ending attempt to pay attention. I made this for you and it is also for my dad." - Emily Johnson
Tickets $25 + fees. Please feel free to call with questions 480-965-5062.

Master Classes / Workshops

January 30-February 3, Wednesday-Sunday, 10-11 am. Glendale Community College, 6000 W Olive Ave, Glendale. GCC Dance Studio, Fitness Center 101. GCC Dance Hosts Sasha Mallory ~ Professional Dancer: Madonna 2012 Tour, Runner Up So You Think You Can Dance Season 8.

FREE Contemporary Master Classes*

Sasha Mallory started dancing at the age of five studying the ballet techniques of the Royal Academy of Dance and various modern techniques from her mother Dawn Mallory and teachers from The Alvin Ailey School, Houston Ballet and Boston Ballet. Sasha worked with West Coast Dance Explosion and has appeared in music videos with Uh Huh Her and Wayne Brady. She has performed at the Grammys with Rihanna and went on her first world tour with American Idol Adam Lambert. Sasha was a runner-up on So You Think You Can Dance Season 8 and most recently she has been performing on stages across the world with pop music icon Madonna.

*Master classes will be based upon a first come, first served basis. Maximum 40 participants. Arrive early to ensure your place in class! For more information, contact Andrea Hashim, GCC Dance Program Director, a.hashim@gccaz.edu or 623-845-3796.

February 11, Monday. Grand Canyon University, 3300 W Camelback Rd, Bldg 9, Phoenix. Grand Canyon University's College of Fine Arts and Production is proud to feature Janaea Rose Lyn, third generation Isadora Duncan dancer and historian, at a guest artist residency. Isadora Duncan (1877 – 1927) pioneered modern dance by eschewing point shoes and corsets for bare feet and tunics to investigate an organic origin of movement in the torso. Based on the rhythms of nature, the dance appears spontaneous but requires great skill and a specific technique. With a sense of energy and grace that radiates from the solar plexus, Duncan Dance is both a philosophical approach to movement and a distinctive style of dance.

Noon–2 pm ~ Historical Lecture and slide presentation will provide a philosophical overview of the life and work of the modern dancer pioneer. Exhibit will include programs, photos and artwork.
2:30-4:30 pm ~ Duncan Technique Master Class will have live accompanist. Previous dance experience is recommended.

FREE and open to the public. For more information, contact Susannah Keita, Director of Dance, Susannah.keita@gcu.edu, 602-639-6295. GCU is featured in our Member Spotlight on pg 15.

Janaea is ADC's newest member and she will be teaching two Duncan classes at the upcoming Arizona High School Dance Festival on Saturday, February 16: 11:10-12:25 pm & 12:55-2:10 pm. To learn more about Janaea, visit janaearoselyn.com. New to the Phoenix area, Janaea has quickly become a valuable member of our dance community.

Dear ADC Members and Friends,

I would like to thank everyone who attended the Arizona Dance Coalition Annual Brunch and Member Meeting on Sunday, January 13, 2013, at The Morning Glory Café at The Farm at South Mountain (Phoenix). It was a cold late morning, but the food staff provided us with plenty of outdoor heaters to keep us from freezing. As usual, the food was wonderful and all in attendance were able to get acquainted and share information, exchange ideas and network.

I'd especially like to thank our guest speakers who shared some very valuable information. Lynn Monson from Arizona Dance Educators Organization, gave us updates on issues pertaining to dance education in Arizona schools and upcoming events, like Pink Tutu Flu, the AZ High School Dance Festival, and more. Alex Nelson from the Arizona Commission on the Arts, gave us important updates and insights to some of the new grants cycles, programs and deadlines that it offers. It's always a treat to visit with members from across the state who we seldom get to see face-to-face. This annual event has become an all time favorite event that I hope will continue for many years to come.

Thanks!

National & Regional Announcements

CULTURAL DATA PROJECT names Beth Tuttle as President of CDP. After a six-month national search that attracted a large pool of extraordinary candidates from across the country, we are delighted to announce that Beth Tuttle will become the CDP's president and CEO. Beth's distinguished career, on staff and as a consultant, in the nonprofit arts and cultural sector reflects her dedication to its advancement. Having worked with organizations such as the Smithsonian's Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden, the Newseum, The National Museum of American Jewish History, and The Crocker Art Museum, Beth has a deep understanding of the dynamics and practices of cultural institutions. Moreover, having conducted extensive research on the characteristics of high-performance museums, she values the importance of high quality data, and she is eager to further develop the CDP as an organization that provides tools to help both address the industry's challenges and measure its successes. Beth's background in our press release here. http://www.culturaldata.org/wp-content/uploads/press-release_beth-tuttle_2013-1-30.pdf

The CDP's transition to an independent entity is well underway, and we are anxious to move forward as a national resource for the arts sector. Beth is extremely well suited to lead our organization at this key moment in our history.

MEMBER SPOTLIGHT

Grand Canyon University DANCE EDUCATION PROGRAM

Ever since the lights went out in Grand Canyon University's College of Fine Arts and Production in 2006, Dean Claude Pensis plotted its return. Fortunately, while bringing back music and theatre, he also recognized the demand for a program that would certify K-12 teachers in dance. The Dance Education Program was founded in 2010 with Susannah Kéita at its helm. Director Kéita began dancing in Grand Rapids, Michigan under two former principals of the Joffrey Ballet. An MFA graduate of the University of Arizona's School of Dance, she has recently become certified to teach the Katherine Dunham Technique, one of twenty certified teachers internationally.

The Bachelor of Arts in Dance Education program spans 120 credit hours of instruction, 100 hours of observational and practice-based field experience, and student teaching during the final semester. Students in the dance program benefit from a close relationship with the College of Education and also share studio space and performance opportunities with film, theatre and music students.

Participation in the Ethington Dance Ensemble provides vital performance opportunities for students to balance their technical training in classical ballet, modern, and jazz. A special emphasis is placed upon learning works and styles of historical significance. This February, students will be introduced to the technique and philosophy of Isadora Duncan as they study with guest artist Janaea Rose Lyn (see pg 9). Post-modern contemporary artist Jessica Gaynor of Brooklyn, New York, will also be visiting and setting a piece for the Twinge Spring Dance Concert. A student matinee will be held on April 26 at 10:30 am and school groups will be reimbursed for up to $50 in transportation costs.

The heart of the program is student-driven. The Elementary Dance Tour is a production that travels to local schools to perform, created through the collaboration of students and faculty. Affiliations with the Student Dance Education Organization, the NDEO and AzDEO, uphold the Dance Education Program's mission of presenting imaginative work, honoring tradition, and inspiring the next generation.

Auditions for entrance into the B.A. Dance Education Program also qualify students for dance performance scholarships of up to $6,000 per year. See pg 10 for audition details. Students should be prepared to perform a short solo and participate in a class that includes modern, ballet, and jazz technique.

Upcoming Events:

March 27, 7:30 pm, Student Spotlight Spring Dance Concert, Thunderground, basement of Thunder Alley, GCU Phoenix campus.

April 26-27, 7:30 pm, April 26 Student Matinee, 10:30 am, Twinge Spring Dance Concert, at Ethington Theatre, GCU Phoenix Campus

For more information, contact Susannah Kéita, Director of Dance, Susannah.keita@gcu.edu, 602-639-6295. Grand Canyon University, 3300 W Camelback Rd, Bldg 9, Phoenix.

Purging the NEA Portfolio/Funder Driven Innovation

Last week, the Pew Internet and American Life Project published a detailed survey titled "Arts Organizations and Digital Technologies," which polled NEA grantees from the last years. While the summary of findings initially seems to present a glowing view of arts organizations' use of technology, the survey actually hints that many organizations simply won't be able to effectively serve their mission in the future. Looking at the margins within the statistics, 10-15 percent should probably see their federal funding cut entirely.

1,258 organizations participated in the survey, representing slightly more than a third of NEA grantees from 2006-2011. The data shows that confusion and contradictions are rampant. For example, 22 percent of organizations do not use or did not know if they used web analytics and 33 percent don't know what kind of engagement they have on their websites. Yet, 93 percent report that social media has had a major or minor impact on their website traffic. How do they know? Similarly, while 91 percent feel that social media is worth the time that their organizations spend on it, 74 percent believe 22 % of organizations do not use or did not know if they used web analytics and 33 % don't know what kind of engagement they have on their websites. Yet, 93 % report that social media has had a major or minor impact on their website traffic.

How do they know?

they lack the resources to use social media effectively and 70 percent admit that their older employees don't believe in social media as much as their younger employees.

When paired with the demographic profile of the respondents: 73 percent have existed for 20 years or more, 50 percent have budgets of under $1 million per year, and 56 percent have five or fewer full-time employees (11 percent had no full time employees at all), the future view is troublesome. As the summary states, it's only going to get worse:

"Organizations will continue to need to adapt and incorporate digital technologies into their programming. This will be a good thing for art consumers and patrons by increasing accessibility and improving collaboration. At the same time, organizations will struggle with funding to keep up with technology. Funders so rarely fund some of the infrastructure necessary to create top-notch digital programming, and that will be a major struggle."

In 2011, the Arts Council England cut 206 organizations from their portfolio, and added 110 new grantees. While a number of worthy organizations saw their funding disappear, new and more productive ones were able to take the next step, and others saw significant funding increases. Most importantly, digital skill and capacity building was mandated across the portfolio.

If the NEA wants its grantees to make strong contributions in the future, it needs to not only implement a similar digital mandate, but also to revitalize the entire portfolio. Over the next five years, the Endowment should set two goals. First, it needs to examine organizations that receive regular funding and see if they are equipped to deliver their services in the digital future. If they can be, support them. If they can't be, cut them. At a minimum, 10 percent of organizations currently getting regular funding should have that support eliminated. Second, to encourage a spirit of innovation and revitalization, the NEA should set a goal that 20 percent of all of its grantees be companies under 10 years of age, tripling today's ratio.

ATTENTION "SOCIAL DANCE" COMMUNITIES THROUGHOUT ARIZONA

If you host a "community" event (not private studio), you are welcome to submit your information to: Krystyna@AzDanceCoalition.org by the 25th of each month.

DANCE Magazine is now available in digital form for you iPad, Nook or Andriod.

<https://itunes.apple.com/us/app/dance-magazine-ipad-edition/id498814631?mt=8>

Having read about this in the actual DANCE Magazine, I searched for the website for more information. Upon visiting their site, here is another tip.

BIZ TIP ~ If you want someone to read what you have prepared at great length and thought, use at least font size 14 for web pages and use a font style that has some substance so that letters will not disappear because they are too thin.

COSTUME TIP

by Marlina Kessler

To create a quick and easy costume for a Bollywood style dance ~ Harem pants: start with a long full skirt, take the bottom back hem and pull it up to the front and into the waistband. Pin. Add a wide strip of gold fabric for a belt. Glue or paint sparkly stuff onto a colorful camisole top and you are ready to go!

MUSIC TIP

by Krystyna Parafinczuk

Download the free app called Shazam. Any time you hear a song come over the radio or TV, just tell Shazam to listen to it, and it will figure out the name of the song, artist, and album within about 5 or 10 seconds most of the time!
